

Feeling a bit of X-Men overkill? TOUGH!:) The film opens next week and we have seen and heard all manner of interviews and clips and so forth.. But talk of a sequel, even though there is no script or green light for one, is already all over the web thanks to Matthew Vaughn, and now MTV catch up with his cast to find out how they see their characters progressing in a second movie.. Tags: MTV Shows James McAvoy on Charles Xavier "I think that as much as this is a story about superheroes and stuff like that, you can't paper over the fact that he's just been made significantly physically disabled and you need to address that. At the beginning of this film, Charles is in a very different place from where he is in the other movies, and by the end of the third movie, you want to see him being quite

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=38147&t=iX-Men_First_Classi_Cast_Discuss_Their_Characters_Possible_Arcs_In_A_Sequel