

For the second straight week Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. gave viewers an episode that was much more spy thriller than superhero action in easily its most straight-forward dramatic episode thus far. S.H.I.E.L.D. is investigating a diamond theft that occurred in Sweden. Somehow the thief knew which one of the dozens of identically dressed masked men was carrying the diamonds giving rise to the theory that the culprit might have telepathy...
