

As a kid I can remember coming home from school to flip on WXON TV here in the Detroit area to watch my favorite comic book heroes every afternoon. In 1966, Marvel Comics, still a budding young company dipped their toes in the water of animation by bringing several of their most popular characters to the small screen in an animated anthology series known as Marvel Super Heroes...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/from-vault-marvel-super-heroes_article_134220.html