

A few months after locking in Tom Cruise as the lead star for his next sci-fi project, director Joseph Kosinski (TRON Legacy) is now poised to pick out his female counterparts. A process which will be taking place this weekend according to Variety's latest report. In the running for the roles of Victoria and Julia are actresses Olivia Wilde, Noomi Rapace, Olga Kurylenko...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/horizons-casting-heats-up_article_130930.html