

The JLA are being detained and put on trial far away from Earth when this episode opens and I was pretty elated to see them. I forgot that everything about this show is better than most other animated series of late, and I really like the design of these characters, even more so than their Bruce Timm styled run on JL and JLU. As the scene went on, I found myself studying the characters' designs. Really sleek-looking...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/young-justice-invasion-war-review_article_136847.html